

Getting Your Research Published

Dr. Mohd Abdur Rashid

Professor, Department of EEE

Noakhali Science and Technology University (NSTU)
Bangladesh.

Biography

Mohd Abdur Rashid received Ph.D. in Electrical and Information Engineering from University of the Ryukyus, Japan. He is currently working as Professor in EEE Department at NSTU, Bangladesh. He also worked as a faculty member in Malaysia for six years, and as Post-Doctoral Fellow for three years in Japan and Canada. He has authored more than 95 technical papers in journals and conferences. His research interests are multidisciplinary fields including mathematical modeling, electronic devices and biomedical engineering.

Outline of Lecture

- Key points regarding publishing research results
- Where to Publish and Where Not to Publish
- Selection of Journal using Abstract, Subject, Indexing, etc
- Citations and Journal Impact Factors
- Types of Journal Publications
- Writing a Typical Journal Paper
- Application of Referencing Software
- Plagiarism and how to avoid it
- Real life example

Publishing Your Research

- Publishing is a vital part for your academic career at all levels
- Read the author guide of the journal
- Follow the format and style of the journal
- Make the flow of contents logical
- Use active voice whenever possible
- Use simple and proper English

Publishing Your Research

- Define abbreviations at their first use
- Do a spell and grammar check
- Avoid plagiarism !!!
- Proof-read you paper
- Get you paper reviewed by colleagues in your field
- Provide a comprehensive, up-to-date and critical assessment of previous research

Publishing Your Research

- Cite an adequate number of latest references
- Cite high-quality papers by others and do not over-cite your own work
- Use referencing software tools
- Your paper undergoes a review by the editorial board, followed by peer review

Where to Publish

- Free Journals/Paid Journals:
 - Not all journals have publication fees
 - Free journals can charge you for open access or printing color images
- Before you start writing your paper, have in mind which journal you want to submit your work

Where to Publish

- Find the journal most appropriate to the research area of your paper and with highest impact factor
- Publishers are providing tools to determine best suitable journal based on your abstract

Selection of Journal: Your Abstract

Find the perfect journal for your article

Elsevier Journal Finder helps you find journals that could be best suited for publishing your scientific article.

Powered by the Elsevier Fingerprint Engine™, Journal Finder uses smart search technology and field-of-research specific vocabularies to match your article to Elsevier journals.

Simply insert your title and abstract and select the appropriate field-of-research for the best results.

The biggest challenge in the field of gene therapy is how to effectively deliver target genes to special cells. This study aimed to develop a new type of PLGA-based nanoparticles for gene delivery, which are capable of overcoming the disadvantages of PEI or cationic liposome based gene carrier, such as the cytotoxicity induced by excess positive charge, as well as the aggregation on the cell surface. The PLGA-based nanoparticles presented

Types of Journal Publications

- Original Research Articles
- Rapid Communications
 - Urgent reporting of research findings
- Reviews
 - State-of-the-art narratives on a research topic
- Research Highlights
 - Short collection of bullet points to convey core findings
- Letters to the Editor
- Case Reports

Writing a Typical Journal Paper

- Title
- Abstract
- Introduction
- Materials & Methods
- Results
- Discussion
- Conclusions
- Acknowledgement
- References

Title

- Selling point of your paper
- Should accurately, concisely, and clearly reflect research work of your paper
- Should be catchy
- Choose words that will make your paper show up in searches relevant to your research work

Abstract

- Short summary of your entire paper
- Should briefly present the contents of the whole paper
- Should be self-contained
- Starting sentence should be well written
- Typically written in a paragraph
- Last written section of your paper

Structured Abstract

- Purpose:
- Methods:
- Results:
- Conclusions:

Note: Usually 250 words

Introduction

- Crucial section of a paper
- Discuss
 - Significance of problem
 - Background
 - Context and rationale for the current work
 - Hypotheses used in the work

Introduction

- What is done in the current work
 - Summarize your methods
 - Include concise outlook of results
- Include adequate number of
 - Recent references
 - High quality references

Materials & Methods

- Provides specific details of how the research was conducted
- Provide details of
 - Materials (chemicals, cell, animals, etc.)
 - Equipment
 - Methods

Materials & Methods

- Should be clear and concise
- Should allow reader to repeat the experiments and reproduce the results
- Should be written in past tense

Results

- Heart of the paper
- Should describe the outcomes of the current research
- Present data in a logical format
- Graphs are better than tables

Results

- Illustrations and graphics should be legible and self-explanatory
- Captions should be appropriate, clear, and concise
- Avoid presenting raw data unless necessary to make a point

Discussion

- Interpretations and implications of your results
- Broader perspective of results
- Do not repeat results section
- Should be relevant, clear, and concise
- Should relate
 - The different results
 - Results with initial hypothesis
- Difficult section to write

Conclusions

- Crucial section of a paper
- Places the current research in context
- Presents
 - Main scientific contributions of the work
 - Broader perspective of the results
 - Ideas for future work
- Avoid repetitions from results & discussion
- Higher level of analysis compared to discussion

Acknowledgments

- Acknowledge funding agencies
- Provide proper credit to those not listed as authors, but helped you
- Acknowledge special gifts/donations of materials used

References

- Use the journal format
 - referencing software can be of great help
- Check references for appropriateness and accuracy
- DO NOT misquote
- DO NOT over cite or be frugal in referencing
- DO NOT over cite your own work
